

PRUSSIA HOST TO TIRED REDS

Pride of Fourth Army Crosses Border After Defeat.

GERMANS ARE FRIENDLY

Soviet Peasant Boys Panic Stricken by Pole Airplanes.

By DR. M. VAN BLANKENSTEIN.
(Washington Herald-Public Ledger Service. Special Cable Dispatch.)

Luck, East Prussia, Aug. 29.—Generally speaking it can be said the Bolsheviks slipped across the German frontier this morning. The Polish troops have now reached Grajewo and the remainder of the Bolshevik army is going in the direction of Augustow, where the forests and marshes are more favorable for retreating troops. The Polish advance was hampered by two days of heavy rain.

Almost the entire fourth Russian army and also a large part of the fifth army crossed the German frontier yesterday. About 25,000 entered the East Prussian town of Johannsburg, where they were interned and disarmed.

Keep Good Discipline.

Your correspondent saw several thousands who formed the chief part of the proud twelfth division, the pride of the fourth army, cross the German frontier at Schwidnau with an immense army train. They were excellent troops well equipped and armed, riding good horses. On German soil they maintained severe discipline and fine marching order. No army in the world need be ashamed of these men.

A portion of the twelfth division returned to attack the Poles in Sausany before crossing into German territory.

The Bolsheviks had formed and armed a civil militia and police force for the frontier, but these men now are going on the Polish side and shooting down Russians trying to get into Germany.

Soviet General Killed.

In the neighborhood of Grajewo yesterday they killed an officer and a Bolshevik general threatened he would not return to the Polish side. The threat was not executed. I have heard nothing of Bolshevik violence. The population on the frontier sympathize with and speak well of the Russians.

On Monday I interviewed a Russian general who considered the reason for defeat to be fatigue and lack of munitions. The spirit of victory and the Russian soldiers' forward, but failure enervated them. The Poles used artillery, which they had not had before, also small tanks and particularly air bombs, which made the Russians panic-stricken. As most of their peasant lads had never seen airplanes.

That Russian general, like many other high commanders, was accompanied by his wife, a real lady. They told me they were not Bolsheviks, and like many others, they showed a keen interest in Gen. Wrangel's operations.

Nevada Project to Tap Beautiful Lake Tahoe To Water Desert Fought by Californians

Typifying the growing conflict between utility and beauty is the contest between two States over the waters of Lake Tahoe, the beautiful emerald lake fed by the snowsheds of the Sierras, and lying on the border line between California and Nevada.

With the United States government acting as arbiter, hearings have been held in Reno, Nev., before engineers of the War Department, which is expected shortly to render a decision. Meantime feeling in both States has reached an intense pitch.

On the Nevada side are rock-bound shores that lie above thousands of acres of parching land in the Truckee-Carson Valley, being rendered unproductive by the protracted drought.

On the California side westward and southward lie miles of white sandy beaches fringed by redwood forests.

The Nevada farmers, headed by Gov. Emmet Boyle, are asking for an outlet that would, say the Californians, lower the lake about eight feet, irretrievably mar its beauty, and leave some of the resorts high and dry. The latter are organized to fight against cutting the rim of the lake to lower the waters below normal.

Convicts Grow Rip Van Winkle Beards When Sheriff Uncovers Plot to Cut His Throat With Own Borrowed Razor

Winchester, Va., Aug. 27.—Following a plot uncovered to kill Sheriff Luther Pannett with his own razor and make a wholesale escape, shaving is strictly prohibited at Frederick County jail.

The prisoners will go without shaving until their beards touch the floor, Sheriff Pannett has declared indignantly.

Last Sunday, while the sheriff was conducting an inspection in the jail cell he overheard excited whispering among the prisoners through a crack in the floor.

He put his ear to the crack and listened closely.

"We'll borrow old Pannett's razor and cut his throat," growled one man.

The sheriff from that point took a very deep interest in the conversation.

The plot, as he pieced it together from the fragments of conversation, was as follows:

The prisoners intended to ask him for the loan of his razor on the pretext that they wanted to shave. Instead they would wait until they were led out for their daily exercise in the jail corridor. Then they would attack the sheriff with the razor, grab his keys and make their escape.

When the time came to give the prisoners an airing, Sheriff Pannett, with a revolver in each hip pocket and a baseball bat in hand, took the prisoners out singly. Each man was permitted to exercise as usual and then locked up.

Sheriff Pannett told the prisoners that there will be no more shaving in Frederick County jail while he is in charge.

In consequence of this order some of the prisoners already have a shaggy appearance.

But the sheriff is obdurate. It will be a Rip Van Winkle jail hereafter if he can make it so.

SKULL BROKEN IN JAIL BREAK

Stowaway's Blanket Rope Breaks Three Stories Above Pavement.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 27.—In an unsuccessful hunt for an uncle of unknown address, 16-year-old Louis Guber, who arrived here as a stowaway about three weeks ago, is now lying in St. Vincent's hospital with a fractured skull.

The boy fell three stories while trying to escape from the United States Immigration detention home, this morning at 2 o'clock. Ten days ago the boy escaped from the city detention home.

"I am bound to find my uncle," he told officers when picked up two days later on Market street.

Early yesterday morning Louis tried iron bars apart, and making a rope of split blankets, started to slide to the sidewalk.

When he was a few feet from the window ledge the rope broke and the boy fell to the sidewalk.

The boy's cries brought help and he was rushed to the hospital. There is little hope entertained for his recovery.

NEEDS NO MAN ALONG ON TRIPS OVER NARROW MOUNTAIN LEDGES

Miss Elizabeth F. Burnell and one of her assistants, ready to take a party out on a "nature trip."

Long's Peak, Col., Aug. 27.—Here's a brand new profession for women. Learn to be nature guides girls! It's fun, it's worth while, opportunities are just beginning to open, and it isn't overworked, according to Miss Elizabeth F. Burnell.

Miss Burnell and her sister, who is the wife of Enos A. Mills, naturalist and author, are said to be the first women licensed to guide in a national park.

Miss Burnell guides parties of tourists all over Rocky Mountain National Park.

Long's Peak is 14,255 feet above sea level and 5,000 feet above the valley. Some of its trails look like a row of window ledges on a skyscraper, but Miss Burnell climbs just the same.

Miss Burnell is a Bryn Mawr graduate, has a degree from the University of Michigan and looks studious rather than athletic. "Any healthy girl can qualify as a nature guide," she said, "but it is a big job. She must have a knowledge of geology, botany, natural history and first aid. She must know the roads and trails of the country where she works, and should be able to manage horses, pack them, make camp and cook."

"It should not be necessary to take a man along."

"The whole call soon will be for the nature guide, the man or woman who can show people interesting things."

"National parks are not the only places that will want nature guides when people wake up to their value. There is something to see everywhere in the world. Some city parks should have them. Some museums already do."
